GREEN HUNTER 3'6"

After two days of competition, several hunter divisions came to a head Tuesday afternoon to crown champion and reserve champion to the riders who stood out amongst the field in their respective classes. The Green Hunter 3'6" division was the first to go in the Dixon Oval. Coming off Monday's competition that saw Scott Stewart and Nick Hanes grab wins in the two over fences classes, the field of 21 entries entered the ring confidently with high hopes to contend for a ribbon. Along with the traditional over fences round, Tuesday's 3'6" class also included the stake round.

With three different mounts entered in the class, Hanes continued his dominance on the course and displayed unmatched riding form and communication with each horse. Stewart also continued to show his comfortability in the 3'6" division, laying effortless rounds that consistently propelled him to the top of the class.

As Tuesday's classes came to a close, points were tallied across both days of competition to determine the overall champion and reserve champion honors for the division. At the conclusion, it was Scott Stewart who emerged victorious aboard Sophie Gochman's Colter.

The pair is no stranger to the hunter ring, coming off several podium finishes at the Winter Equestrian Festival in Wellington, FL earlier this year. The nine-year-old gelding got some quality experience last year in the 3'3" division at the Devon Horse Show and was able to use that experience to his advantage this year. Under the guidance of Stewart, Colter showed off his impressive stride and top-notch hunter cadence.

SINGLE HORSE CARRIAGE CHAMPIONSHIP

Tuesday also saw the championship for the single horse carriage division. In the single horse classes, a two or four wheeled carriage is pulled by a single horse. The driver and the horse(s) have to complete three stages: Dressage, Marathon, and Obstacle Driving.

The class is judged on the turnout, neatness, and suitability of the horses and carriage. The carriage classes are historical events set to pay homage to the history of the Devon Horse Show and the driving sport. Since prior to the Industrial Revolution the horse and buggy represented the primary mode for both public and private transportation, it is no surprise that driving has established itself as one of the oldest and most popular disciplines within competitive equestrian sport. Carriage pleasure driving classes pay tribute to this heritage, and the vehicles used in competition are either actual antique or replica carriages of the day.

Tuesday's Jumper competition at the Devon Horse Show was highlighted by the $38,700 Jet Run Devon Welcome Stake CSI4*. This was first FEI class of this year's show and also the biggest class so far with a total of 34 entires ready to duke it out in the prestigious Dixon Oval.

As the sun began to set, a beautiful night set the scene for the talented class. FEI classes allow for international riders to join the competition, and in this particular class, five different countries were represented. The field of competitors was put to the test on the Anderson Lima designed course. Lima, a well known course designer within FEI show jumping, challenged the riders to an 11-obstacle, 13-effort track that featured six oxers, two double combinations, and one over water jump in the middle of the ring at jump four.

The class was set to a one round format that put riders on a race against the clock. The horse-and-rider combination that could lay a clear round at the fastest time would be crowned the winner. Renowned showjumper, McLain Ward set the pace early on with a 58.73 second clear round. He would eventually be surpassed by several riders and their mounts.

Alex Matz (USA) and Cashew CR came out on top with the fastest clear round amongst the group at 56.32 seconds, securing the blue ribbon. Devin Ryan (USA) and Eddie Blue took second, while Roberto Teran (COL) and BP Wakita finished in third.
