CHLOE WHITE AND TZTARGAZER WIN HAGYARD GRAND AMATEUR OWNER HUNTER CHAMPION AWARD

Taking home their second Grand Amateur Owner Hunter Championship in a row at the Kentucky Summer Series, Chloe White of Berwyn, PA and Tztargazer captured the Amateur Owner 3'3" division championship on their way to taking home the Hagyard Grand Amateur Owner Hunter Championship. Tztargazer and White, who rides with Amanda Lyerly of Madison Hills Farm, racked up a total of 46 points after winning all four over fences and coming second in the under saddle this week.

Hagyard Equine Medical Institute proudly recognizes the top performers in the Amateur Owner Hunter divisions at the Kentucky Summer Series with the prestigious Hagyard Grand Amateur Owner Hunter Champion title. On the final day of the two-week Kentucky Summer Series, points were tallied across all sections of the Amateur Owner Hunter Sections, 3'3" and 3'6", and it was White and Tzargazer who were welcomed into the Stonelea Ring to take home the Grand Championship Honors at the Kentucky Summer Classic.

Speaking highly of Tzargazer, White said "Tzargazer was my Junior Hunter. I started with him in 2016, he won basically every final with me as a Junior, and then I just bought him back in January. He is the weirdest horse you will ever meet and is blind in one eye, but he has an incredible personality. He picks the people he loves - he thankfully picked me, and I just absolutely love him for it. We always try to take the best care of "Utah," as he's getting older, he is 17 now. He is my heart horse, he deserves whatever he wants."

Regarding their performance at the Kentucky Summer Classic, "I absolutely loved our Handy today, it was really fun, he used to be a Grand Prix jumper, and he is really great at Handy's so I feel like I can test him and push him," White shared, "He won all four over fences classes, and was second in the hack, so it was almost a clean sweep! I absolutely love Kentucky, and the horses really love it here too."

The seasoned Rhinelander gelding, owned by Colin Cash, has had his fair share of blue ribbons throughout his career. His maturity and experience has allowed for the perfect partnership with Cash. Across several days of competition, the duo dominated in the 50+ division accumulating two blue ribbons, a red ribbon and a yellow ribbon to award them as the overall champion.

Taking reserve champion honors was Jamie Planck Mcree and Behold. Mcree and Cash were neck and neck throughout every section in the division, with only one second place ribbon separating the two in overall points.

As the sun rose Sunday morning on the beautiful Kentucky Horse Park, the Adult Amateur Hunter 50+ division was ready to compete for the final blue ribbon of the Kentucky Summer Classic. The 50 & over riders were designated to the Alltech Arena to battle it out for the top spot. The class was set to a course designed by Jason Shelley in which he challenged the horse and rider combinations to master their communication and proper hunting pace to meet each obstacle in stride. At the conclusion of the class, Jeanine Cash and Boccaccio stood alone.
